Winfred C. Akers

HEADMASTER, BROOKLINE HIGH SCHOOL

Of New England by ancestry, birth and education, Mr. Akers is truly representative of that section of the country from which many of America's great men have come. As a youth he was serious of purpose, ambitious, industrious. At college he was a leader in both scholastic and athletic activities, and a member of a fraternity which is one of the three leading fraternities of the college world. As a professional man he has realized the promise which he showed as a youth, for here, too, he is a leader, beloved by his colleagues, and respected by schoolmasters throughout the state. Although he is a modest man and has persistently shunned publicity, his name and accomplishments are known far and wide; and his opinion and advice are frequently sought by those who would make their schools better.

As an educator, a progressive educator, he has done much to enhance the reputation of Brookline High School. Being open-minded, he has been quick to see and adopt what was good in new methods of administration and teaching,—for example, he has established a splendid system of teacher-student government and a flourishing Honorary Society; he has revised the curriculum effectually, and provided a course for motor-minded or retarded children; he has attended to the health of the pupils by providing adequate luncheon facilities and a well-proportioned physical education program. Yet, being a sane and well-balanced administrator, he has not rushed into some of the half-baked experiments that are so popular in many of the schools of education.

Because he is just, he is admired and respected by pupils and teachers alike; because he is in all respects lovable, he has the deep affection of every teacher who has ever had the privilege of working with him, and of many hundreds of Brookline boys and girls who still acknowledge his influence and leadership.

After seventeen years of richly productive service, he resigns. Although his physical presence will be lacking, his spirit will be for many years a vital influence in Brookline High School; and that is indeed fortunate, for never again will there be found a man with quite the same nicely balanced combination of qualities—of scholarship, of leadership, of dignity, and of warm, human feeling. It is to be hoped that as our dear Mr. Akers closes his active work as a schoolmaster, he may feel that he still has a duty to his profession: namely, by writing and by lecturing, to pass on to the younger, less richly endowed, less perfectly equipped members of the teaching world, something of the wisdom of his character and his experience.

To Mr. Akers

"Time hath, my lord, a wallet at his back,"
And year by year to every man he brings
A gift so single that not even kings
Can buy or seize it—nor the beggar lack.
To each, in turn, from out his magic pack,
Gold coin of memory and hope he flings.
Then, with the sun, while yet the metal rings,
He vanishes, along his ancient track.

This for us all. To you alone this rhyme,
From all our hearts, with wishes strong and true.
May every minute bring your own desire!
Turn, turn the dial, till, beside the fire,
Shall speak our love unchanging still to you
A voice beyond the sounds of space and time.

Class President's Address

PARENTS, TEACHERS, AND FRIENDS:

It is with appreciation of the great honor that I extend to all of you a most hearty welcome from the Class of 1930. No more can you realize the depth of heartfelt earnestness with which we greet you than can we express our sincere gratitude for the unending care and interest you have shown toward us. We are fully aware that what success has attended us in the past and will continue to attend us in the future, is due to the undying love of our proud parents, the confidence and efforts of our splendid teachers, and the faithfulness of our friends.

We deeply regret leaving this playground of our youth, its tender friendships and associations. However, we do not fear the thought of stepping forth into the world, which will soon throw its portals open to us.

The outdoor exercises you have just witnessed, results of our physical development, are over, though in our hearts they will last forever. Let us continue the remaining ceremonies in this auditorium of pleasant memories. You will hear of our accomplishments of the past four years, of the glorious paths we shall tread in the future, of the disposition of our various properties, of our philosophical outlook on life, and of the interpretation of our ideals in verse.

So, come, welcome guests, rejoice with us and help make the memory of this day always an inspiration to the Class of 1930.

ROGER BURKHARDT

Class History

(The curtain rises showing an EDITOR who walks across to a desk left and picks up a newspaper conveniently left there.)

Hello, what's this? "The Indignator," New York, May 2, 1942.

POLICE CLUB BROTHERS IN MAY DAY CONVENTION

Sympathizers arrested for interest in world Brotherhood Socialist Movement

This must be a radical organ. I wonder who edits it. (Turns pages.) Lemme see . . . . Entered second class matter—at—no—Editor, oh! now I have it, Herbert H. Fox. Why, I knew him as a staff writer on the Sagamore! He was radical even then.

Hmm! Wonder where the class has disappeared to. I remember . . . .

We entered in September, 1926, as green and very self-conscious freshmen and at once began to emerge from the chrysalis into the perfect proof of Mr. Kepner's statement: "Most High school students have moronic tendencies."

However, we elected blindly, but successfully, our officers: Fred Glover, President; Eleanor Thomas, Vice-President; Alice Gordon, Secretary; and Gerard McEntee, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

In addition to the class president, an ex-officio member of both the Teacher-Student Council and the Court of Justice, Betty Richey was elected to the former and Ruby Brettler to the latter.

Although this was the year of that epoch-making post-season game with Everett, our class football team was by no means overlooked.

In swimming Pat McEntee earned his letter as a diver. Frank Neer and Winnie Dermody began to develop their track ability.

The girls' sports were strongly aided by members of our class. Betty Richey was assistant manager of Field Hockey and Harriet Dangel, Constance French, Rosemary Loeser and Betty Richey won letters in swimming.

Esther Graham took first prize in the annual J. Murray Kay contest, and Ken Goodyear, was an alternate. Intellectually we began to controvert the evidence of "moronic tendencies" caused by our general appearance, and actually had four members writing news for the official organ.

After the usual period allowed for forgetting things we took up work with vigor. It was September '27; we were Sophomores and beginning to indulge in abstract discussions designed to air a superior knowledge in the presence of the incoming class.

for a long hard ride in opposition most of the time to the inhibitions of the faculty at large.

N. Frank Neer was elected to the exalted office of President; Eleanor Thomas was again chosen Vice-President; Alice Gordon was appointed to inscribe the records and Esther Graham held the purse strings. Ruby Brettler was elected to the Teacher-Student Council and Al Weinberg emerged from the masses as a member of the Court of Justice.

The sports horizon looked dark for the following years but when our class came into the fray, the curtain rolled back to reveal visions of future triumphs. Alfred LoCascio made his letter and Bob Goldman, Frank Neer, Peter Racheotes and Winnie Dermody shone in track, and in swimming John Horne came to the fore. Baseball, too, was immeasurably aided by our stars, Francis Fleming and Pat Cannon.

The girls' sports were dazzling with brilliant '30 players and in swimming five more than in the previous year were on the team. Field Hockey was again managed with the assistance of Betty Richey who made the All-Boston Junior Team and was also elected secretary of the Girls' League.

Eleanor Thomas had a prominent part in the Dramatics performance, "The Poor Nut," and it was partly due to her efforts that the play was so successful. We must not forget the members of the class who made the crowd of forty-three boys and girls the superlative crowd that it was.

The various clubs were well-seasoned with '30 members and the Aero Club was dominated by them—George Mason '29, notwithstanding.

The Band was swelled by an even dozen of us, precocious musicians that we were, and all but four of the violins in the orchestra were bowed by our classmates. During this year the combined musical clubs aided the Teachers' Club in presenting "Pinafore."

Kenneth Goodyear, the unique member of the class who found high school too easy and went to college without waiting to graduate, won Prize Speaking with a delightful story of "How He Killed a Bear." The Sagamore Staff was sprinkled with budding wielders of the pen and in spite of it struggled through a depressing year.

The talented Mr. Goodyear, joined the Sagamore after aiding the class in entertaining the poor bewildered freshmen in a play in which Bernice Kirshen, Harriet Dangel, and Bertram Dane appeared.

The class of '29, I remember, attributed to our dumbness the lowering of the dismissal mark from C to D. They were wrong. It was to clear away the dead wood in their home rooms that that was done.

This year showed a little of what the class of 1930 could do—but what a year the next one was!

Starting off right we elected another set of officers. Frances W. Muldowney, Jr., President; Eleanor Thomas, Vice-President; Marion Myers, Treasurer, and Esther Graham, Secretary.

Alvin Weinberg was elected to the Teacher-Student Council and in April was made President of the Association Body of Student Councils for Massachusetts. Eleanor Thomas was elected to the Court of Justice.

The girls were active in the Girls' League where five members held executive positions; and in the Girls' Aero Club which was founded by members of the class. Elinor Pike was president; Mary Crowley her alternate, and Ethel Feinsilver, librarian. Edna Friedman was vice-president of the Art Club to which a great number of '30 students contributed their skill. Four members of the class were Patrol Leaders of the Girl Scouts. Our class was well represented in the various foreign language clubs.

The sports of the school were again much enhanced by 1930. Helen Cooper, Eileen Manning, Marion Myers, Ruth Myers, Betty Richey, and Marion Stanford were on the Varsity Girls' Swimming Team. Five girls were on the Field Hockey Team, which was again managed by Betty Richey. The Gym Team was led by Elizabeth Myers and managed by Marion Myers. Betty Richey captained the Tennis Team which Elinor Pike managed. Betty Richey won the class tournament.

The Boys' Sports were also incalculably aided by the class of 1930. On the Football Team were Donald Blunt, John Horne, Thomas Noonan, Max Dexter, Peter Racheotes. Thomas Larkin was on the Baseball Team. In track Winchester Dermody, Richard Hartigan, Al LoCascio, and Pete Racheotes made their letters. The Swimming Team was aided by the presence of Rockwell Gray, John Hyland, Irving Nisson and Preston Woodlock. The Aero Club and Glee Club were again aided by '30 boys as were the Band and Orchestra.

Elaine Skidmore, Al Weinberg and Al LoCascio took part in Dramatics, while Frannie Muldowney helped behind the scenes.

Roger Burkhardt and Norma Berlow led a Sagamore completely staffed by the members of '30.

Eight members were admitted to Alpha Pi. They were Dorothy Alter, Allen Bennett, Ruby Brettler, Kenneth Goodyear, Anna Martin, Leona Moss, Francis Muldowney and Betty Richey.

With rosy plans for a bigger and better Senior Class we retired to spend the summer forgetting what little we had learned.

In the fall Francis Muldowney was re-elected President and Eleanor Thomas was, for the fourth consecutive year, elected Vice-President. Marion Myers was made Treasurer and Alice Dawson, secretary.

A class meeting was held and committees, chronicled elsewhere, appointed, so that activities might be promptly under way.

The Senior Social, bigger and better than ever, (an historian might say that) was managed by Van Crews and presented an amusing novelty in the shape of a definite plot.

Dramatics, under the able financial direction of George Hooper and with an admirable cast led by four seniors assisted by "Jackie" '30 was, as usual, successful.

The Honorary Society admitted in this year twenty-one more from 1930.

The marshals were led, for the most of the year, by Alvin Weinberg who said, I precisely recall, that it was one of the most successful years the marshals had experienced.

The Seniors were represented in the Court of Justice by John Hyland, Chief Justice, Francis Muldowney and Alvin Weinberg, ex-officio members, and Robert Goldman, elected by the class.

The Teacher-Student Council was largely aided in its deliberations by the presence of the President and Vice-President of the class. President Weinberg conducted the annual convention of the Associated Body of Teacher-Student Councils of Massachusetts and was accompanied by Francis Muldowney, a director.

The intellectual work of the class was outstanding this year. The Sagamore was eased through a particularly perilous year by the efforts of its editor and staff of 1930 students and was turned over to the new staff in fairly good shape.

The Girls' League was headed by Betty Richey, President, and Betty Greenleaf, Vice-President, with five of the committee chairmen Seniors.

The Four-Minute Speakers, the Senior members of which were Elsa Cohen, Bernice Kirshen, Eleanor Litter, Gertrude Pokorney, Gertrude Steinberg, Beatrice Stone and their president, Eleanor Sachs, were formally organized for the first time this year. They have boosted many a "pet subject" for the grateful teachers.

Alvin Weinberg took the boys' prize in the annual J. Murray Kay contest with a selection from the "Hairy Ape" of O'Neill, superbly delivered.

The language clubs were led by seniors and all had successful years. The German Club had Selwyn Kudisch as president and the French Club, Alice Dawson. The Library Staff, with Evelyn Abbey, Ethel Feinsilver, Minnie Goldman, Anna Martin, Josephine Melican, and Evelyn Pinkerton as Senior members had been right on the job delivering things during study periods.

Musically 1930 has held its place. The Girls' Aero Club, led by Mary Crowley, included nine Seniors among its members and the Girl Scouts also had an active membership. Phi Sigma Delta, (a somewhat classy alias for the Art Club) which was presided over by Edna Friedman, who succeeded to her sister's shoes in the fall of 1929, contained 1930 members. The Domestic Science Club headed by Priscilla Perry had three other Seniors in the organization.

The athletes of the Senior Class were very active in both boys' and girls' sports. The Girls' Gym team was led by Eileen Manning, and Dorothy Burke, Marion Stanford, and Madeleine Marsh were on the Varsity. Marion Stanford captained the Swimming Team on which were Eileen Manning, Marion Myers, Ruth Myers and Betty Richey. The team defeated the Sargent freshmen by a large margin.

Boys' sports were well sprinkled with stars. George Ford, Milton Herman, Tom Larkin, Harold Levinson, Frank McCone, Irving Nisson, Tom Noonan, John Taylor, and Jarvis Woodward were on the Football team which, after playing a poor season, held Newton, in the crucial game to a 0 to 0 tie, and a moral victory. The team captained by Bernard Hootstein, was managed by Charles Wolf. The Track Team was also led by Hootstein but managed by Elliott King Shapira. Charles Gow, Robert Kenswil, and Harold Levenson with Lindsey Brigham comprised the nucleus of the team.

In winding up the year the Seniors, Henry Hunsicker, Eddie Dooskin, Sol Robinson, and Eleanor Thomas, lent their aid to a play for the benefit of the school fund.

(The EDITOR rise, stretches) Twelve long years, and now you almost wish you were back at school looking at the same old pictures and statuary scattered here and there through the rooms. Hmmm! I wonder.

HERBERT FINN

Oration

In The Americanization of Edward Bok occurs the following quotation: "Make you the world a bit more beautiful and better because you have been in it." This quotation was the message of the late Edward Bok's grandmother to her children; it was the message she bade them remember and carry through all their lives. It is most significant to us to know that everyone of her thirteen children followed this precept and in his way accomplished something for the betterment and beautifying of the world.

We graduates are now in a position where for us to give heed to this message is an assurance of future noble and worthwhile lives, for can there be anywhere a man of nobility and integrity who is not making this world better and more beautiful?

Philanthropy, as we know it, is only one of the many phases of world development. Men give large sums of money for the erection of magnificent structures and the encouragement of charitable societies, but spiritual contributions are needed even more. We are in want of precept and example just as we derive moral uplift from the examples set by fellowmen. "Example teaches better than precept. It is the best modeler of the character of men and women. To set a lofty example is the richest bequest a man can leave behind him."

Classmates: A man has just completed nearly twenty years of faithful service to an institution. Through all these years of guiding the work of this institution, he has seen it grow from a comparatively small school of six hundred students to one of the leading establishments of secondary education of this country. He has tirelessly, generously, and gladly given his time—devoted the best years of his life to his cause, the furtherance of education, the development of youth, that force which makes a future world worthy.

If "Blessings ever wait on virtuous deeds and though a late, a sure reward succeeds," where is this man's reward? Where is the fruit of the seeds he has sown?

Edward Bok's grandmother's reward lay in the work of her children —his reward will lie in the lives of us graduates, of us who are leaving this school.

Are we going to make this reward complete?

HANNAH CAUMAN

Class Poem

The fleet years in transient glory pass
The firm tread of Time resounds through empty halls;
Echoing and re-echoing the slow sound falls.
Like a brief wind that runs through ruffled grass
We live in our lives. The sand slips through the glass,
Irrevocable, inevitable, and though our frenzied calls
May beat and beat again on granite walls
It never shall return as once it was.

In that brief breath, in that quick-quenched flame,
God grant that I may live one single hour
Of beauty, blazing till it blind.
Oh, let me not for money or acclaim
Bargain away whatever hidden power
I may have found, or that I yet may find.

ALVIN WEINBERG

Class Prophecy

ELEANOR THOMAS

TIME: Sometime hence.

PLACE: Coolidge Corner: Mid-afternoon. Honk! honk! Two cars approach from either side of the stage. Honk! honk! Collision.

ELEANOR: Well, Alvin, I should think you'd respect the right of way signal—

ALVIN: Hello, Eleanor, was that what you were waving your hand for? Any damage?

E. No, but I'm in a hurry. I'm bringing this data copy about the doings of the class of 1930 to the printers.

A. Oh, yes, you're Vice-President of the Brookline Historical Society.

E. Yes, and by the way you might be able to give me some help.

A. Well, pull up to the curb and tell me what you've got.

E. Well, first you know Barbara Aborn, Margie Hutchinson, and Gertrude Hines are doing literary work.

A. No!

E. Yep, they take young authors around and give them experience for their novels. Incidently where is Henry Weiss?

A. Oh, I went down to see him yesterday. He and Vincent Pollina were making mudpies—down in Danvers, you know. I asked Henry how the other inmates, Irving Gordon and Frank Reinherz were. Henry said, "Oh, they're the nuts." And what has become of Ernest Bird? (Takes a batch of programs from pocket.

E. Oh, he's a broadcaster. He selects girls for positions of substitute at our old school that Dexter Wade superintends. The girls that he has selected so far are Evelyn Abby, Mary Niland, Gertrude O'Donnell and Louise Otto. Gertrude Pokorney is his secretary and Frank McCone is janitor.

A. Here's a program about a show that some Brookline people are in. It's the one in which Erma Carp, Helen Cooper, and Marion Myers sing, "He was only a postmaster's son but, oooh, could he play postoffice!"

E. Oh, yes! Milton Herman does a Helen Kane in shorts emulating the new Dartmouth style, and Eddie Dooskin is première danseuse in the Russian ballet composed of John Handrahan, Robert O'Brien, Malcolm McIver, and Peter Niland.

A. Speaking of acting, Ethel Feinsilver is at the Met in her latest all talkie. She takes the part of a deaf mute. Arline Romanow as the vampire and Eddie Howard as the simple country lad complete the cast. There is an awful cute aesthetic chorus that dances: Barbara Burt, Mary Crowley, Ethel Stronach, Marjorie Greene, and Mary Murphy. I saw it Tuesday and quite a crowd of people were there; Alice Brown, Eleanor Fowler, Mildred Frisch, and Ethel McPhee were the understudies. There were two usheresses whom you might know —Ruth Rosen and Amy Sawyer. Ahearn and Busey are check boys.

E. Imagine this. I was parking near the sidewalk the other day and saw Dorothy Burke, Margaret Conway, and Margaret Cullen flirting with Irving Nisson. But he made a dive for a taxi and got away. He's training Mary Potterton. She's planning to swim out to Deer Island to see Solly Robinson. He's finally been sent out there.

A. Oh, well, he always threatened to leave the girls some day. Also I see by the paper (taking a newspaper from the car) that Bea Lisker, Eleanor Litter, and Elizabeth Miller have formed a Man Hater's Club all on account of him, I bet. It says too that Leona Moss is publishing six year books a month and still has time to direct the news editors of fourteen dailies.

E. That reminds me of the Woman's Rater Club that Roger Burkhardt has founded. Bart Murray, and John Larson belong to it. All you have to do to belong is to express your opinions of women. Esther Graham and Virginia Price were the only girls with a high rating.

A. Look, here's a program to a banquet. And see who the president is. Francis Muldowney, president of the Amalgamated Order of Steam Fitters, Leona Beck, Vice-President, Helen Currier, Secretary, and Bea Hirsh, Treasurer. Big Irv Wallace gave a health lecture on how to cure fallen arches on the humps of camels; Eliott Shapira, a success talk on "How I Rose from Starvation to Indigestion;" Tom Parker and Robert Purinton lectured on "How We Raised a Check and Double Check." Eleanor Sachs talked on "Hunting Wild Animal Crackers in the Pantry"; and Dean Johnson gave an inspirational address "How I sold Subscription to Magazines 17 Years to Work My Way Through College."

E. Look, it says here that the banquet broke up in a row led by Victor Newman, Sunday School Superintendent and his assistants, Paul Jameson and Judson Cousins, who have recently joined the local branch of S. A. governed by Jack Rosenthal, Daniel Ring, and John Myers. Among those taken at the banquet were Mildred Beal, eccentric heiress, Charlotte Currier, and Elizabeth Hamilton. They were arraigned before Judge John Hyland—he's the one who once told a prisoner, charged with murder in the first degree, that he would die laughing when he heard this one. The first defendant, Barbara Noyes, was charged with disturbing the peace. Dorothy Alter, Miriam Lourie, Bernice Kirshen and Blanche Agoos were sentenced to thirty days with shiny noses, for creating a traffic jam while "making up" in the middle of the dining room.

A. Here's a picture of Lee Rosenberg sitting in his cell reading his own book "In a Prism" in which he makes the amazing discovery that his legs are full of negative charges, explaining, therefore, why they repel each other. Mr. George Ford of the New York Times says, "I am happy that Professor Rosenberg has discovered this, since it overthrows the theory of Francis Fleming, dean of truckmen, that such legs are afraid of each other." Herbert Fox, the editor of that radical paper—The Indignator—says, "A trite and erratic statement."

E. The connoisseurs of beauty, Harold Orlick, and Charles Wolf, ran a beauty contest for the Hannah Cauman beauty shop here in Florida. Gertrude Norman was selected unanimously from a bevy of such beauties as Alma MacIver, Eileen Manning, Josephine Melican, and Florence Costello.

A. And listen to this! Mrs. Henry Hunsicker (neé Marjorie Tarbell) sails tomorrow on the Mauretania and will join her husband in Paris if Henry doesn't get word that she is coming. Ruth Myers is commanding the Mauretania in the absence of her sister Elizabeth Myers, who was unavoidably detained at Lillian Meltzer's tea room on the water front, better known as "Happy Lil's," together with her partner, Louis Doodlesack. Margaret Hogan is on her way to compete in the Olympic Typewriting Championship with Mary Guise and Norma Knight. Blanche Spencer and Mary MacDonald are alternates. Here's a picture of Alfred Reiss, ambassador to Schnytzelvania, holding the hand of Barbara Trott, Prime Minister.

E. Natalie Mallard and Claire Sibley were supposed to go, but they heard that travel broadens one. That must have disappointed Edna Friedman who expected them to visit her art studio in Paris. She wrote recently that she was at the Paris School of Art. Irene Herman has been going there for four years already and hasn't learned to draw the line yet. We found Marion Wilband, Ruth Kinsman, Olive Morse, and Katherine Hooban watching Ruth Reimer doing a portrait of Selwyn Kudisch, professor of German at La Sorbonne. He mentioned that Lenore Schapiro, Wilma Richey, and those sisters, Elsie and Priscilla Perry, are his star pupils. Then we went to Pourquoi, a new French Café owned by Warwick Hutchinson. Among his waiters are Isadore Finn, and Daniel Goldberg. While there we heard Lola Johnson complaining to Carol Orr that she for one did not like cars that climbed trees. Carol replied, "I cannot control my desire to turn my flivver over for inspection." Then who should walk in but Herman Wise with Mary Patuto of the Moulin Rouge followed by Vincent McTigue with Daphne Stanislaus and Evelyn Tannen who are familiar sights in Paris. The Howard Segall-Roland Taylor ten-piece orchestra was in charge of the music and Gladys Cole, Mary Blackwood, and Anna Clark were soloists. As Darleen Thurber was singing "Old Black Joe" she repeatedly substituted Tom for Joe and caused George Cavanaugh, Anthony Cassidy, and Andrew Bruce to laugh so heartily that they were expelled from the hall.

A. "Moscow, June 5. Elliot Tarlin was recently imprisoned by the Moscow Government represented by Sumner Miller and his Roosians, Alice and Helen Hewitt. He was trying to set up a factory to manufacture the new Myron Aronovitz razor blades. It's by the method that Granville Taber and Walter Murray invented of using moths for making holes in the razor blades."—And speaking of Sumner Miller, Al Goldin has written a book on "How to Save Your Hair."

E. William Glaser, popular barber, says he saves his in a cigar box.

A. Evelyn Cohen and Suzanne Abrams are taking painting lessons.

E. At the studio?

A. No. No, at a beauty shop. Incidentally, Ruth Creelman, Sally Lanagan and Esther Muldowney keep that schoolgirl complexion by taking long walks every day.

E. Yes,—to the drug store. Joe Capron is down in New York and she still goes in a West Point direction. Herbert Finn, Emmett Lewis, and Carl Shapiro are in business there too. Herbert as a doctor kills the people, Emmett as a lawyer executes the will, and Carl as undertaker buries them.

A. Listen to this. In response to the shrieking last night in room 303 in the Mary Lynch Hotel, bellhops, Ruth Rogers and Alice Walsh found that Miss Alice Dawson was standing on the window sill calling for the animal rescue league. Just one of those little grey things scurrying around.

E. Norman Schwartz and Saul Goldberg after earnest research have discovered that by lowering a barometer from the top of a tower and measuring the rope, one may ascertain the height of a tower by means of a barometer.

A. Listen,—Herbert Solomon sailing on the Muddy River in a new Charles Hill Speedboat, would have sunk when the boat overturned if Sidney Rabinovitz hadn't jumped in and saved him. Solomon's first words were: "I thought I'd die." "I was watching him rescue Solomon and Gertrude Steinberg tried to flirt with me but my car wasn't working."

E. Elaine Skidmore and Rose Badaracco are touring a coffee factory looking for grounds for divorce. That's irony for you! Janet Adam, Eunice Doherty, Gladys Gittins, Frances McKenna, and Minnie Goldman are looking for husbands, but Evelyn Pinkerton has promised to advertise over the radio for them.

A. Brookline Class Reunion Dance, held in Shailer Hall was run by Anna Martin, Gertrude Hahn, Helen Cushman, and Sophie Freyberg; and quite a crowd was missing. The Radiator Club was present in its entirety,—Helen Doughty, Wanda Wedlock, and Eleanor Ferguson. Arthur Levine was there too,—he's a big shot at the munition works, owned by Tom Noonan.

E. It says here that Daniel Goldman and Irving Rabinovitz have formed the Goldvitz company in conpetition. They are selling sawed-off shot guns in Chicago that are guaranteed to kill. Irving Keller and Anthony Cassidy say that their effect is damaging. The company is trying to get a writ of mandamus against the Chicago Casket Company owned by Frank Johnston and Joe Graham, who persist in covering up their good work, but Captain "Freckles" Murphy of the Chicago squad and his men, Melvin Rosengard, and Hyman Silverstein are providing much business. The firm of Mona Peterson and Bertha Phillips is attending to their legal affairs.

A. The Brookline Sewing Club has its meeting at the home of Margaret Goldsmith, its president. Doris Guren, Catherine McKenna, Marguerite MacDonald, and Miriam Levinson are its ardent workers. At present they are making attractive ear-muffs for the starving Mumbos in Armenia, among whom are Nancy Magee, Marjorie Stewart and Ruth Curtis.

E. It says here that the circus is coming. The Barnard-Delle circus has a new assortment of African curiosities including Donald Blunt, the Wagwababmi chieftain and his ant-hunters, Lillian Sternick, Josephine Conway, Eda McIndoe, and Gertrude O'Brien. Some of the minor performers are Irma Johnson, Dorothy Kelly, Eleanor Jones, Madeline O'Hare and Evelyn Warren who do bare-back riding and general tent work,—that is setting up the tents and taking them down. Jane Dumont and Eleanor Ronimus do a tight rope walk, while Phyllis Shapiro, Rosemary Loeser, and Adeline Kirk are clowns. On Saturday there will be a benefit performance under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The purpose of the delegates, Sylvia Lewenberg, Helen Marden, Bernice Gordon and Miriam Naigles, will be to collect data on the monkeys, for a future discussion on "Our Forefathers."

A. Some of the special attractions that day will be Madam Gladys Cantor, Hindu Snake Charmer, Bertram the great Dane, who can lift one thousand pounds with his "littul itty bitty" finger, and the original Tom Thumb, Dave Martin. Dave has surprised us though,—he's no longer original. Also the trained human seal, John Norris.

E. Listen to this ad. The Van Crews Hand Painted Shoes, a dainty addition to migentleman's wardrobe, trimmed with lace set off by a bow of impassioned red or lavender, giving that dash of the risque to migentleman.

A. Ralph Spector is buyer for Philip Hunter's Department Store. Paul Graves is floorwalker there and Grace Laing, Margaret Fleming, Mary Scannell, Eileen Reid, and Dot Redmond are employed there, too.

E. It says here that Hunter lately declared a picnic, and Ethel Agoos offered three of her cars for the employees' transportation. Marion Stanford chauffered one; Madeline Marsh, the second and Pat Cannon, the third. They picked up four cross-country hikers, Bernice Rosenberg, Gerry Wilson, Alyce Woods, and Marjorie Mills.

A. There are three new businesses being formed in Brookline,—The Robert Goldman factory, which will manufacture needles for haystacks, —the Dana Smith factor which will manufacture egos for egotists and the Tom Larkin factory will manufacture ice cream base balls. Blanche Taylor is thinking of starting a factory for the purpose of manufacturing excuses for tardy high-school pupils. Harriet Dangel has disposed of her factory because she could no longer hold the trade in thise famous candy hearts known as "Roger Boy".

E. Oh, here's a newspaper ad. It'll interest you. George Hooper, noted dietitian: "I was always thin when young, so imagine my embarrassment when mother placed me on the scales in the kitchen, after I had drunk a bottle of cream mixed with one tablespoon of Kozminsky's Baby Food, and found that the scales weren't working.

A. Here's the ad for Dave Ascher and John MacKenzie's Chinese Laundry.

E. Here's a write-up on Martha Lewis's treatise on social status,— "Who's Who in the Hoosegow." Miss Lewis avers that racketeers and gunmen in Scotland don't take enemies for a ride—They take them for a walk.

A. What surprised me most is this announcement of a book by Gloria Housen,—"Modern Swear Words,—Their Use and Need." And here's a question column by Norma Berlow, a horoscope by Lillian Band, and "How to be Noisy" by Virginia Chase.

E. And here's a column by Allen Bennett—"Brookline Night By Night." Why, Allen! Ruby Brettler has donated one hundred pairs of shoes to the Home for Disabled Veterans. How sweet of her! Melvin Howard and Hilda Mathisen are visiting the bull fight tomorrow in Mexico. Betty Richey and Eleanor Pike are very busy in perfecting their new game which consists of a combination of ring toss, football, bean bag, basketball, and baseball. Have you heard that Phil Renta and Margot Brewer went riding in an aeroplane? Margot descended a la parachute while Phil is still waiting for the plane to stop.

A. William Minnis and Everett Knudson have both got black eyes. Upon being questioned they answer that they didn't choose to run, but Roland Gaulin, John Hahn, and William Webb admit being the adversaries.

E. Well, thanks a lot for the information. I must be going.

A. Oh, just listen to this advice in the lovelorn column.

Dear Miss Feingold,

Per your instructions I have taken precautions not to open the window too wide and little Bernie is growing to be a great big man just like his da-da. Thank you very much.

Beatrice Rosenberg.

Dear Miss Feingold,

We are newcomers to your column. Our names are Beatrice Stone and Helen Shooshan, and we wish to have some advice on how to be beautiful. Would you please send us your special correspondence course?

Beatrice Stone,
Helen Shooshan.

Dear Miss Feingold,

I have experimented with your correspondence course, and find that I am married to the wrong man—What shall I do-oo-o?

Elsa Cohen.

Just like Elsa to be dissatisfied!

E. (Looking at wath) Guess its time to be getting back to the printers.

A. I think so, too—Fred Davidson, that policeman, has been watching us ever since we stopped here.

E. No wonder—Look, we're right in front of a "No Parking" sign.

Last Will and Testament

Be it remembered: that we, the Class of 1930, of the Brookline High School in Brookline and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, being of sound mind and memory, but knowing the uncertainty of this life, do make this our last will and testament, hereby revoking all wills, heretofore made by us.

After the payment of our just debts and funeral charges, we bequeathe and devise as follows:

First: We, members of the class of 1930 of Brookline High School, consecrate the first words of our last will and testament to the permanent memory of the headmaster of our school who retires from active service as we graduate this year. Winfred C. Akers—the most human of fathers in educational work—the gentleman, the scholar, the advisor, and the friend with whom it has been our supreme privilege to walk through life for four years. To him we leave our entire capacity for love, honor, respect, and gratitude. He has earned it all! Had we more, we'd give it, too.

Second: We leave our sincere sympathy to the faculty for the grief that will be caused by our departure.

Third: Tom Noonan leaves his "fighting Irish spirit" to Harold Levenson. (He may be able to use it).

Fourth: Louis Watson leaves one pair of moccasins to some needy freshman.

Fifth: We leave to "J" McNamara the chance to start a new string of interscholastic swimming victories.

Sixth: Darleen Thurber leaves the care and feeding of Tom Ducey to some kindhearted junior.

Eighth: We leave a permanent marshal's post to Mr. Case.

Tenth: We leave to Mr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Hines the good chance of improving the football and track teams of the past year.

Eleventh: Al Weinberg leaves his dramatic ability to some illustrious junior.

Thirteenth: We leave to Mr. Keegen the honor of being constable of the corridors for the summer months.

Fourteenth: Frannie Muldowney leaves his excellent leadership to Winslow Robart.

Fifteenth: Elaine Skidmore leaves her good looks to Virginia Lowell.

Seventeenth: We, the Senior Class, leave all our old hats to our beloved Mr Bemis.

Nineteenth: Allan Bennett leaves his "high-brow" editorials to the wastepaper basket.

Twenty-first: Bill Webb leaves his drag with Mr. Keegen to someone who will appreciate it.

Twenty-second: Eddie Howard leaves his good looks to Tom Ainsworth.

Twenty-third: We leave Tom Ducey to Mr. Kepner for another round of history. (We hope he wins by a K. O.)

Twenty-fourth: Irving Wallace leaves his sport-writing ability to some unknown junior.

Twenty-fifth: Henry Weiss and Vinnie Pollina leave Mr. Packard peace and happiness.

Twenty-sixth: George Hooper leaves one seat outside 317 to anyone who may apply for it.

Twenty-seventh: Erma Carp leaves her way with the men to some needy damsel.

Twenty-eighth: John Taylor leaves his drag with Mr. Hines with the boys from Chestnut Hill. (They need it.)

Twenty-ninth: Dan Warren leaves his way with the women to the Honorable George Racheotes.

Thirtieth: We leave to Mr. Fleming, for the purpose of keeping the study room quiet, a pair of boxing gloves.

We hereby nominate and appoint as executor, Mr. Corcoran, and request that he may be exempt from giving any surety on his bond, as such.

Signed,

THE CLASS OF 1930.

In testimony whereof, we, the Class of 1930, have signed, published, and declared this to be our last will and testament in the presence of the undersigned, who at our request, in our presence, and in the presence of each other have hereto subscribed their names as witnesses to said will.

THE · BROOKLINE HIGH SCHOOL

Class of 1931

WINSLOW H. ROBART, President ELIZABETH GREENLEAF, Secretary

ALICE WERNER, Vice-President CHARLES FRENCH, Treasurer

One of the memorable accomplishments of the Class of 1931 was the Junior Social, which was given free of charge and was open only to Seniors and Juniors, a new departure. The social was most successful with a large representation from each class. It will be difficult to duplicate it.

A very unusual honor in the history of the school came to a Junior boy who captained both the football and track teams.

The Juniors achieved honor in athletics, many winning the "B" for the second time with one member being placed upon the "All Boston Hockey Team."

The Class of 1931 took prominent parts in the Senior Social, and Dramatics, proving its ability to take a high position when it becomes the Senior Class of the High School.

THE BROOKLINE HIGH SCHOOL

Class of 1932

ROBERT HALL, President

MARY CLARKE, Vice-President

SYLVIA SIMMERS, Treasurer

CAROLA NASMYTH, Secretary

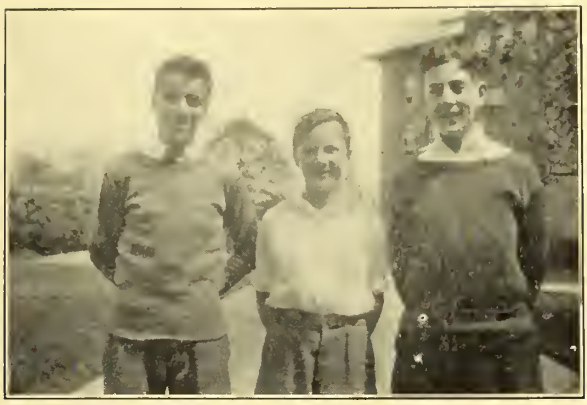
The Class of 1932 commenced its second year by welcoming the incoming Freshmen with a warm reception. Due to the splendid co-operation of the teachers and members of the various committees, the social more than accomplished its purpose in strengthening the bond of friendship between the two classes.

Throughout the year, the Class has been prominent in scholarship, many members having secured the marks necessary for enrollment on the first or second honor rolls.

Outside the school curricula the Sophomore class has been well represented, members having been prominent in Prize Speaking, Dramatics, and Senior Social. Members have been instrumental in aiding the school to retain its high record in athletics.

The class of 1932 has triumphantly passed the second milestone on the road to graduation, and cherishes the ambition of making a record that will be a credit to Brookline High School.

THE BROOKLINE HIGH SCHOOL



Class of 1933

WILLIAM LETT, President VERNON JEWETT, Secretary

SANBORN VINCENT, Vice-President IRVING LEWIS, Treasurer

The Class of 1933 entered Brookline High with a goodly number, September 9, 1929.

In October the class elections were held. Later ten marshals were elected from the class, and four members represented 1933 upon the Teacher-Student Council and the Court of Justice.

The annual reception given to the Freshmen by the Sophomores was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed. One of our number was a highly appreciated performer in singing and dancing at the Senior Social.

The Class has been well-represented in the field of sports. One boy made the Varsity team in swimming and won the coveted "B". The girls, too, have distinguished themselves.

Watch the Class for the next three years!

The Class was saddened at the beginning of the year by the death of one of its members, Elizabeth McKane, who died October 25, 1929.

One of the outstanding accomplishments of the Teacher-Student Council has been the steady amassing of pamphlets and charts showing the requirements, cost of tuition, and advantages of the leading colleges. The result will be shown at advantageous points about the building under the title "Opportunities."

The Council presented an exhibition of the Venetian Glass Blowers on November 6, 1929, at a large profit.

The Annual Convention of Massachusetts Teacher-Student Councils was attended by Alvin Weinberg, the president, and Francis Muldowney, a director.

The Council has had a very successful year. It has settled, to the satisfaction of many, the disputes brought before it.

The Court of Justice, the judicial branch of student government, passes judgment on cases of misbehavior referred to it by the Headmaster, Captain of the Marshals, and the Teacher-Student Council.

The chief aim of the court is to make the student see his error, to instill in him a respect for authority and regulation, and to justly compensate him for his misdeed. Since he is judged by his schoolmates, he feels that he has received fair treatment, as these school-fellows thoroughly understand his viewpoint.

Decisions are subject to the criticism of the Headmaster only. During its six years of existence it has had the confidence of both the faculty and the students, and has proved its worth as a part of our fine student government.

This was a most successful year for the marshals of 1930. Gratifying co-operation was shown by the school to the marshals in the lunchroom, study rooms, and corridors, especially since four new posts have been created.

The Captain and his assistants extend to all their appreciation of the fine spirit shown in this difficult task.

The Girls' League started the year 1929-30 with a membership of 650. The first meeting was a tea in April when the eighth-grade girls and their mothers met the mothers and teachers of the high school girls. A tour of the building followed for the prospective freshmen.

The annual party in October to welcome the freshmen was divided into several smaller parties, as it was felt that in that way the girls could get better acquainted.

Each of the classes, as well as some of the larger committees, had charge of one meeting. The program included a tea for new girls and their mothers, a circus, a Christmas party, when scrapbooks and toys were made for Brookline Friendly, and a meeting when graduates of B. H. S. told of their experiences in college or vocational school, and gave advice on the best way to prepare for advanced schools.

The Girls' League Room came into existence this year, and after being furnished, it will be a most attractive clubroom. We hope it will be indispensable not only to us but to the other clubs of the school.

The Girls' League gives every member a chance to show her loyalty by sharing in her class party, and by developing the spirit of co-operation; it tries to bring about a closer bond among the girls of the school.

The Honorary Society of this year is composed of forty members, of whom ten are juniors. Hence the society will have a considerable number with which to commence next year. Again the matter of making the requirements for membership more stringent has been considered, but will not be undertaken immediately. Most of the present members would have been eligible even under the new requirements.

To attain to this society is the greatest honor which a student may gain. It implies not only scholastic achievements but also service to the school through the medium of extra-curricula activities.

During the past year the Sagamore has endeavored to keep up the standard established in recent years, but has been hampered by financial difficulties and a noticeable lack of co-operation on the part of those from whom support might most reasonably have been expected.

As a matter of fact the strong appeal of the Sagamore to the student body is on the wane as the steady decline in its circulation indicates.

This situation may be partly attributed to the fact that matters of common interest to the school have been withheld from discussion in the Sagamore, but more directly to a general decline in the support of school publication due to the competition of the daily press.

Perhaps the establishment of the Sagamore as an independent department of the school curricula with its independent faculty supervisor might ameliorate this condition.

This year the Four-Minute Speakers have been formally organized and meetings have been held twice a month. Besides the usual routine of making speeches before the classes, members have been called upon at meetings to give extemporaneous talks upon any subject. This has been most helpful in the development of poise and mastery of speech

The organization has had a most successful season. The following topics have been presented: The Ben Greet Players, the Venetian Glass Blowers, the Red Cross, Prize Speaking, Books for Seamen, and Tardiness. Representative members of the groups have been selected to go to other schools and speak on matters of community interest. Real appreciation has been shown by various faculty members whose "pet projects" have been "boosted" by the organization. The group now feels ready to speak upon any subject which it is desirable should be brought to the attention of the school.

The Library Staff is an organization made up of thirty-seven members of the Girls' League, chosen by Miss Sawyer and Mrs. Siebens. The staff has done very helpful work for the school. Being a member of the organization enables a girl to become more familiar with the proceedings in a library and the uses of the library itself.

The Staff also offers many good times to its members. Numerous parties and other social functions take place during the year, such as the party for teachers, the Christmas party, and various trips.

At the Christmas meeting Papa Noel distributed gifts from a big wooden shoe to all the members, and many poems and jokes were given One of the most delightful meetings was held when two little French sisters presented an original performance. The club has thoroughly enjoyed this year.

The German Club has been very successful during the past year. The annual Christmas party was especially enjoyed. On this occasion the organization of 1930 set a precedent for coming German Clubs to follow by presenting a gift to the faculty advisor, and making also a contribution for the future German clubs at Brookline High School.

Under the supervision of the three art teachers the Art Club has in past years been outstanding as a growing school organization. All students are eligible to become members. Meetings are held the second Tuesday of every month. The Club strives to interest its members in the various fields of art.

At the first meeting, in October, the officers were elected and by the end of November the club had the relatively large membership of sixty.

The December meeting was in the form of a Christmas party, attended not only by the faculty but by some of their children.

In January the display of glass and rugs at the Museum of Fine Arts was viewed by the club. The February meeting was omitted, but for the March and following gatherings surprise excursions were made.

On the whole, the members are greatly benefited by the general scope of inspiration received from the art schools, exhibitions, and museums visited.

It was formed to develop the social interests of its members. Several meetings were held throughout the year, including a jolly candy pull. At the March meeting pins were talked about, and finally were ordered. The discussion was followed by a social hour with dancing and refreshments.

The Brookline Aero Club, the boy's aero club of the High School, continued another year of its history as an organization for the promotion of aeronautics. The club was founded by George Mason of the Class of '29, to whom all credit for its inception is due.

Several speakers addressed the club during the school year, among whom were Lieutenant Samuel Frebison in charge of the R. O. T. C. Air Corps Unit of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Lieutenant Frank Crowley of the Boston New York air mail service, and Lieutenant M. R. Greer, commanding officer of the Naval Air Station at Squantum, Massachusetts. There were several discussions and talks given by members of the club. Among the interesting topics discussed during the year were: relative merit of airplanes and airships for commercial and private use, worthlessness of spectacular oceanic flights for aeronoutical development, and the construction of airships and airplanes.

Head Aide in Emergency Room: FLORENCE DAWSON '31

This year has been most successful. With a full membership of 40 scouts and 3 associates our activities have been more varied than ever before.

At the Girls' League tea given for new girls of the school and their mothers in October, the troop gave a demonstration of various types of work, including hand crafts, sewing, first aid, camp fire, signalling, and singing. The school nurse uses the members of the group as her aides in the emergency room, each girl giving at least one of her study periods for such duty whenever possible. Another service activity in which it engages is sewing for the Woman's Needlework Guild. Since the troop has most of the oldest girl scouts in town, it is making the larger dresses needed by the Guild.

In December, Patrol 1 gave a Christmas party to the other patrols with a Christmas tree, games, and all the fixings. February found the troop busily preparing for a tea given to the faculty and troop mothers; patrols 2 and 3 were in charge but all scouts assisted and a pleasant afternoon resulted. Weekly meetings are devoted to scout work or the making of plans for future service or fun.

The troop is working hard to win again the banner awarded at the annual rally. Community, home service besides scout achievement count toward this and all the girls are trying to advance one step in rank before the May rally. Hikes and outdoor meals lure into the open in the fall and spring, and many members can now pass as expert firebuilders and cooks.

In February the annual conference for girl scouts of the Metropolitan Boston District was held in Brookline with 400 delegates attending. All Brookline scouts were hostesses, with B. H. S. troop on special duty, an honor much appreciated. The troop presented to the school a new silk parade flag to be used on Class Day.

What a fine working force a group like this may become in the annals of B. H. S.! For to them has been given the opportunity of helping to establish the B. H. S. Bank. Other High Schools had flourishing banking systems before us, but as soon as Economic Education became an integral part of the curriculum in Brookline, the way was opened for establishing a school bank, the newest school activity. Results have already shewn clearly its need and value. Nine months only has it been in actual operation, yet $9000 is credited to its depositors.

College, cars, travel, all forms of business capital and the good things of life are in sight for these depositors. May their tribe increase!

A Brookline High School delegate was selected by the Metropolitan Chapter of the Red Cross to attend the National Conference of the Junior Red Cross held in Washington, D. C., May fifth to eighth.

Miss Ethel Hansen was the one so honored; first, because she is a member of the Junior Class; second, she is an honor student; third, she has been a faithful delegate to the Metropolitan Chapter; fourth, she has done excellent work for the Junior Red Cross in connection with the High School activities.

B. H. S. Junior Red Cross has accomplished a great deal during the past year. It has provided Thanksgiving dinners, milk for some undernourished children at home, milk for certain pupils at the luncheon period at school (through the Brookline Milk Fund), and clothing, toys, and books have been sent to hospitals.

Because of the information and insight into Red Cross work in addition to the interest shown by the students in the activities of the chapter, B. H. S. division expects to do even more and better work next year.

The Senior Social, sponsored by the Class of '30, was a departure from the traditional presentation of vaudeville variety. This year the audience received a pleasant surprise in the shape of an original two-act musical comedy based on the acts presented to the committee by the pupils.

Two hours of dancing capped an evening successful from theatrical and social viewpoints.

The chairmen of the Junior committees were as follows: Alice Werner, Entertainment; Lindsey Brigham, Head Usher; Chester Litman, Dance; Helen Johnston, Publicity.

The Junior Social open to juniors and seniors was held Friday, April 11, in the auditorium. There was a short entertainment followed by dancing in the lunch room. Music was furnished by Art Marshall's B. U. Band.

Sophomore Committee: Robert C. Hall, Chairman; Mary Clark, Stanley Cohen, Franklin Fox, Carola Nasmyth, Sylvia Simmers, Hodee Waldstein.

On November 15, the freshmen were given an enjoyable reception by the class of 1932, due to the splendid co-operation of the members of the committees and faculty.

For the first half of the year the orchestra added many new members, so much time was spent in practice, but through the untiring efforts of Mr. Cook, it has improved sufficiently to be able to play in public on several occasions. Besides performances at High School, including Prize Speaking, Christmas Festival, Dramatics, Evening School Graduation and B. H. S. Graduation, it played over the radio, January 25, 1930, at Station WLOE, Boston Advertiser. Another delightful opportunity was given it when a few selected members played with another orchestra at the "Seventh International Music Festival" held in Symphony Hall, February 22, 1930.

The Girls' Glee Club of this year has faithfully done its part to "keep up the good work" of previous years. Although the number is not as great as last year, the same good spirit prevails as before. Since our first rehearsals in September many new members have joined. The program of last year has been followed in allowing anyone interested to join the Glee Club.

The entire Club took part in the morning Christmas entertainment. Mr. Cook had chosen the most popular Christmas carols familiar to everyone which made them doubly enjoyable. It had a most unusual opportunity to exercise its talents in the art of singing by broadcasting over the radio. Brookline High School was allowed one hour in which to entertain over station WLOE through the courtesy of the Junior Record. The Glee Club sang two English tunes which were most successful.

The Monday meetings of the Girls' Glee Club has been a source of enjoyment and fun to those participating. We hope this interest and good spirit will repeat itself in years to come.

This year has been the most successful one the club has had. Though smaller in number, there has been no lack in the quality and power of the singers, who have worked hard all the year and have sung at several social affairs.

In company with the Girls' Glee Club, the club sang over the radio and received high praise for their good work.

A special quartet was selected, consisting of Thomas Reynolds, first tenor, John Custis, second tenor, Vincent Pollina, baritone, and Robert MacLeod, bass.

The football team of 1929 began the season seriously handicapped by the graduation of practically all the letter men of the previous year and the enforcement of the four year eligibility rule. The squad was under the tutelage of a new coach, Mr. Fitzgerald, and although both the coach and the team gave everything within their power, fate decreed that the team should not enjoy a successful season.

Their striving was partially rewarded on Thanksgiving morning when the annual battle with their greatest rival, Newton, resulted in a scoreless tie but really a moral victory.

Prospects for next year are exceedingly bright. Three-quarters of the letter men are returning, and with one year's experience and a knowledge of the system employed by Mr. Fitzgerald, Brookline should once again earn a high place in scholastic football.

The indoor track team was troubled with the same problem as that which faced the grid-men—loss of material through graduation and ineligibility. However, through the efforts of Mr. Hines, Brookline emerged the victor in the first meet of the indoor season—a dual run with Watertown as the opponent Stanley Cohen, a sophomore, who ran the dash in 4 2-5 seconds, was the outstanding performer.

Then came the two encounters with our ancient rival, Newton. The first took place in the old drill shed at Newton and found Brookline far on the short end. Undaunted, the red and blue fought back in the second meet at Brookline, and lost by the narrow margin of one point.

Between the two Newton meets, the Northeastern Interscholastic was run. Inexperience and lack of veterans brought defeat. Brookline participated in the Boston Athletic Association, Andover, and State meets with little more success.

The nucleus of the interscholastic point-gatherers was built about Lindsey Brigham, sturdy 600-yarder, Charles Gow, whose specialties were the 300 and 600, Robert Kenswil, broad jumper, who placed fourth in the State meet, and Harold Levenson, the thousand-yarder.

As most of the team was composed of underclassmen, it is hoped that next year's competition will furnish better results. However, athletics are not merely for the achievement of concrete awards; they are for the benefit of the individuals who take part.

Boys' Swimming

Captain, JOHN HYLAND '30 Manager, FRANCIS MULDOWNEY '30

Coach, MR. MCNAMARA

This year's swimming team which was built around four regulars from last year, gave a very creditable showing. Brookline's record of never having been defeated in the dual meet competition by a high school was kept clean, but the team met defeat from three prep schools. These losses would have undoubtedly in two cases been winnings, if the team had not been so handicapped by the ineligibility of regular swimmers in the big meet.

Much talent was discovered in the two lower classes this year, and a fine team is promised for next year. The team finished in third place in the New England Championship meet, losing the leadership for the first time in ten years. William Hyland was the star of the dual meet season, and with Mortimer Silverman, and Bert Richards came through in fine shape in the big meet.

With a nucleus of only two veterans, the Tennis Team has started the season with traditional enthusiasm.

Fifty candidates reported for the squad at the first meeting of the year. The "green" material bids fair to develop into real varsity calibre before the season ends. Practice and experience in matches will put the team on a par with that of last year.

The growing interest in this sport warrants the movement now under way to classify it as a major sport.

Another successful year has been enjoyed by the Girls' Swimming Team so ably coached by Mr. McNamara. Again the team was fortunate in having so many veterans to help.

Two varsity meets were participated in. The first was with Lasell Seminary and was in the form of a Play Day. Teams were formed from the girls of each school, and designated as Red, Blue, Tan, and Green teams. The Green team won by getting the highest number of points. This sort of meet was the first held in this part of the country. The second meet was with Sargent School Freshmen. The resulting score in swimming was 47 to 21 in favor of Brookline. Although the score won was large, the races were well contested.

The Varsity Gym Team had one meet this year, which was in the form of a Play Day with Cambridge-Haskell School. Both schools were divided into four teams, the Red, Blue, Green, and Yellow. The Red Team was victorious having received the highest number of points.

Three inter-class meets have been held.

MISS JAMES, MISS BROWER, Coaches

The girls' field hockey team, under the tutelage of Miss James and Miss Brower, had a most successful year. Many of the veterans were back and the few places were soon capably filled.

In its first game, the team tied Winchester, champions of the past two seasons. Waltham was beaten decisively and the final game of the year with Wellesley, resulted in another tie. Brookline has been beaten by Wellesley for four years so the tie was virtually a victory. The game with Newton had to be cancelled because of the weather.

The interclass series ended in a tie between the Juniors and Seniors, as the weather prohibited a play-off. The teams were captained by Mary Niland '30, Rosalind Badaracco '31, Gladys Norris '32, Jane Cooper '33.

The girls showed great improvement in team play under Miss James's and Miss Brower's coaching and the quality as well as quantity of new material promises well for next year.

Brookline again placed two girls on the All-Boston Junior Field Hockey Team, Betty Richey for the fourth time, and Rosalind Badaracco, who received honorable mention last year.

At One Time
Pins Were Extremely Expensive

—so expensive that only the wealthy could afford to buy them. And a curious old law allowed their sale only on January 1st and 2nd of each year. Upon these days, husbands who could afford it, gave their wives "pin money"—which expression implied sizeable sums.

Today we speak of pin money in disparagement—yet we have only to save these seemingly inconsequential sums regularly to find that they are capable of becoming as important as the pin money of long ago.
